Reply of Mr. Delmas.

Delmas, answering the District Attor-

"I will beg leave to call your honor's attention to the matters the district attention to the witness was detailing what she had told Thaw; the district attention to the mind of the defendant. All that his wife testified to was that she had told her husband that she had fistrict attention of the defendant at the time the story was told. The people would not be allowed to produce any evidence to question the truth or probity of the story.

"And your honor ruled." continued the witness tend to show that she did not tell this story to this defendant. Delmas, "that the district attorhad taken the correct position in mey had taken the correct position in the matter."

Mr. Delmas continued reading the eyidence until he came to the point where the defense had offered the people the opportunity of rebutting Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's story.

"And you now refuse that privilege," said Jerome.

"You are doing now what you solemn.

said Jerome.
"You are doing now what you solemnly said the law prohibited you from doing then," answered Delmas.

Jerome and Delmas Tilt.

"It is perfectly true that I cannot go into the truth or falsity of the suit of the! Thomas," said Jerome. "This poor girl who is now dead." "I object to the learned district attorney saying 'this poor girl now dead," sald Delmas.

"Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw herself testified that Ethel Thomas was dead," answered Jerome.

Yes, it is in the evidence that she is "Yes, it is in the evidence that she is dead," said the court.

"Does the district attorney assume that he can reject an offer and then after trying the case on the theory which he has since laid down, to try to avail himself of a chance which the rules of proceedure will not permit," said Mr. Delmas, referring to Jerome's vain effort to find grounds upon which to base an application for a lunacy commission.

The only thing is, did or did sae not "The only thing is, did or did sae not say the things that produced this brainstorm; did or did he not hear from her for the first time the stories that alienated her love from him." answered Jerome. "I want to show that this very story was brought to Thaw's mind two years before Evelyn Nesbit ever uttered a word of it to him." say the things that produced this brainstorm; did or did he not hear from her for the first time the stories that allenated her love from him." answered Jerome. "I want to show that this very story was brought to Thaw's mind two years before Evelyn Nesbit ever uttered a word of it to him."

Delmas Checks Jerome.

Mr. Delmas said: "It may be the custom on the Atlantic seaboard to interrupt arguments. It is not so in my former home."

"I beg your pardon," said Jerome; "I former home."

"I beg your pardon," said Jerome; "I thought you had finished."

"I had scarcely begun," answered Delmas. He continued: "If I understand the attitude of the learned district attorney, it is this: A man who is in love with a girl makes an offer of marriage; she declines on the ground of the evil life to which she has been introduced by a bad man, and now the attempt is made to go back to years prior to that period to show that there were bad men in New York of whose existence Thaw knew."

"I beg your pardon," said Jerome; "I carbon copy of the Hummer annauti. Exhibit 76, and the photographic copy of the signature to the paper.

Familiar With Evelyn's Writing.

Q.—You are familiar with the handwriting of Evelyn Nesbit?

Mr. Delmas took the copies of the affidavit and the reproduction and proceeded to carefully read them. It was the first opportunity Thaw's senior counsel had to examine the all-important document and he went over it at greatlength.

"Mr. Dillingham stated to Mrs. Thaw—" He stopped short right here, and then added: "Perhaps I had better not recall it. The district attorney will find it in the minutes of the trial."

Jerome then went through the evidence and read at length from the testimony of Mrs. Evelyn Thaw concerning the alleged beating of Ethel Thomas. It was alleged, Mrs. Thaw had said, that Thaw had beaten Miss Thomas after tying her to a bed post.

According to Jerome, the story had been told to Mrs. Thaw by Dillingham. Jerome read the testimony, but could find no mention of the name of Filial lerome read the testimony, but could find no mention of the name of Ethel Thomas in connection with the story told her by Dillingham.

"I ask that the district attorney shall not be allowed," said Mr. Delmas, "to inject into the case at the time his conclusions as statements of fact."

Delmas' Objection Sustained. The unshot was that the objection by

Q.—Did you during the process of that action become possessed of certain let-ters of this defendant in connection with the action of Ethel Thomas? Objected to on the ground that the letters must have been written prior to June, 1903. "The defense has introduced evidence that the defendant had the mumps," said Jerome. "I claim the right to go back of 1903 to show some things."

Willing to Erase Testimony.

Referring to Delmas' objection, Jerome further said:

"And your theory is all we string to matters preceding June. 1877.
"I have no objection," said Delmas.
"That would eliminate the expert testimony and a great part of the hypothetical question," said Jerome.
"No, that would cail for only the elimination of the testimony relating to the acts of this defendant," said Mr. Delmas, "prior to June, 1903. I have no objection to this being done."

By Jerome:
"My theory is this: They put in such testimony as they saw fit. They began when he was a little child and had a when he was a objection to this being done."

I submit that I be allowed to show everything to indicate that he is sane, when they are permitted to relate the facts I have referred to for the purpose of establishing his insanity."

Ruling to Fix Dates.

Justice Fitzgerald ruled that the district attorney should fix the date before introducing the letters.

Delmas objected to any conversation etween Mr. Longfellow and Mrs. Thaw. "Read the question By the court: The question, "Did any of them relate to the affidavit?" was again read.

Jerome's Efforts Determined.

By the court: "If it is in evidence hat a paper was destroyed in the office of Howe & Hummel-that is not true. We want to show that the paper which she testified to having burned in a jardiniere in Mr. Hummel's office was, in reality, delivered to her and by her given to Mr. Longfellow. Before I can start in and offer my secondary evidence, I must show that it is secondary. I want to show that the paper, the original, is in the possession of the defense. No power can compel them to produce it. Therefore, the secondary evidence of the affidavit is material." material Jerome's statement caused a big sur-

Mr. Delmas said that the affidavit in question had never been handed to any Delmas objected and the question was of the lawyers for the defense.

"Do you wish to go on the stand and make such a statement?" asked Jerome. "This is a wholly unnecessary and insulting way of treating my answer," exclaimed Delmas.

"Ask your witness if you want to learn what became of that paper," declared

Q.—Were you in 1904 informed by her by telephone to come to the office of Abraham Hummel?
A.—Not in 1904.
Delmas objected.

Jerome Made Blunder.

"My condition finally got so serious that I was advised by my doctor to go to a hospital. I went to one of the largest in Detroit. There they gave me what I supposed was coffee, and I thought it was the best I ever drank, but I have since learned it was Postum. I gained rapidly and came home in four weeks.

"Somehow the coffee we used at home weeks."

This question came as a surprise, as the evidence up to this time showed that Mrs. Thaw had gone to Hummel's office in 1903. It was assumed that Jerome had either mistaken the year or that he had evidence of a further visit which had not been referred to. A moment later Jerome referred to the telephone communication as subsequent to October 27, 1903.

Jerome Argues Point.
